Is your tower a fortress of faith, or is it a structure of inferior quality that will crumble when the winds of oppression whirl around it? Will your citadel meet the trials and joys with a stamina that will not wear away?

Here at Indiana Academy, we strive to build towers that shall stand the test of time. Day by day we cultivate traits of character that will be our bulwark of faith and strength. The citadels we form now may be impressively high because of the goals and the ambitions we work towards. No matter what the structure of our tower, we attain no more support and strength than we put into our foundation. The blueprint of the Indestructible Tower, Christ himself, must be the rule that we build upon.

Dorms -- where the action is! Here the tower of character is either built or destroyed. The tendencies of the early years become evident as the student associates with others, but hopefully, in this situation he finds an atmosphere of amicable living conditions.

The dean is a vital link in the students' experience, endeavoring to help shape their lives for a successful and rewarding future. Naturally, there is a balance of the good times and the difficult periods. Life in a dorm would not be complete without the scars of a practical joke now and then, the disagreements and homesickness, but nothing compares to the lasting and beautiful friendships that are formed through these experiences.

Igniting The Fires Of Friendship

"Fire! Fire!!" Frantically, everyone looked around for the fire. Well, this fire you could not see; rather, it is the warmth of love and friendship within that the firemen were trying to locate. The fire fighters that arrived at the August 30 Handshake did not come to extinguish anything. Instead, it was their effort to ignite and perpetuate many wonderful friendships.

First Rung Of The Ladder

Registration Day, August 29, was a frightening experience for many. Yet for others it was a most enjoyable day, seeing old friends and meeting new people. This was just the beginning of our climb to the top of our towering experiences.

The long awaited day has finally materialized for the seniors. Each has built his tower -- some may be imposing and seemingly strong, and others may be dwarfed to the human eye. It is God Who knows just how strong your wall of faith is, and as you launch out into the world, give someone a chance to lean upon the fortitude you possess. As you grow now into noble citizens, prove to the world that you have what it takes to produce the pillars of society. Let your gift to mankind be a life of service.

“Come Ye Apart”

To build an impregnable tower of strength, we must lay a foundation of unity. In the beautiful surroundings of Camp Timber Ridge, the IA school family sought refuge to contemplate our relationship with God. Serious consideration was given to Bible study, and recreation provided the balance for a perfect atmosphere.

The strength and spirit of our student body depends, to a large extent, upon the stamina of our leaders. Recognizing this fact, the student leaders and their sponsors gathered at Camp Au Sable in Michigan to learn and to share, an experience that may be the core of our spiritual growth for many years.

Melodies of Praise

Dedication and responsibility are two of the attributes that the members of the Choralanas must possess. Each one must feel that he is a vital part of this instrument of praise and place himself in a position to be used by the Holy Spirit. The name of our school is prominent in every church in our state because of the performances by this musical group. It takes more than just the desire to travel -- many times it means inconveniences to the choir members and to those who accommodate them -- but these burdens disappear when joy is dissipated in their melodies. Mr. Larry Otto and Miss Vinnie Alsaybar have been steadfast and thorough in the training of the singing groups on our campus. Without their example of dedication, perhaps their ministry of music would not be as meaningful and inspiring to so many.

Spirit Of Unity

Wholesome recreation with healthy competition can provide the characteristics that are so important to a united school family. The annual fall picnic gave every student the opportunity to get acquainted and participate in sports of all descriptions. The weather was perfect for races, out-door eating, just sitting under the shade of a tree, or enjoying the sun. The class of '77 was the winners, but the underclassmen determined to build a tower of resistance for the future.

INVOLVEMENT

Building Healthy Bodies

The activities of the Temperance Society promote keen mental and spiritual alertness by principles of healthful living. Since the mind is the main avenue through which God communicates with humans, it is essential to maintain clear thinking and strong towers by not abusing ourselves in our daily habits.

Under the leadership of Doug English, IA will attempt to capture the Lake Union temperance award. A campaign promoting the aspects of true temperance through posters, jingles, speeches and demonstrations will help to gain some points for that occasion.

We Gather Together

"The Dawn of God's Dear Sabbath," brings relaxation and meditation to our campus. Instead of the grind of a regular school day, it is a great feeling for the school family to be seated in the chapel at 9:30 on Sabbath mornings awaiting a special blessing. Sabbath School is engineered by student officers who take pride in presenting the best. We sing and pray and study together while we enjoy close fellowship.

Let's Praise God

The Sabbath lends itself to worship in so many different ways. After the noon meal and probably a hike, we usually gather in the chapel for an activity in which everyone can participate. Here we not only sing and pray together, but our leader usually plans a lecture, a nature film, a variety program or something by which every student can come together on a common ground.

Shari, remember these past 7 summers when we did all those fantastic (?) things that we did? I am sure that Jesus has a special plan for your life. Stay so close to Him that He can lead you in that plan.

Love,
Annette

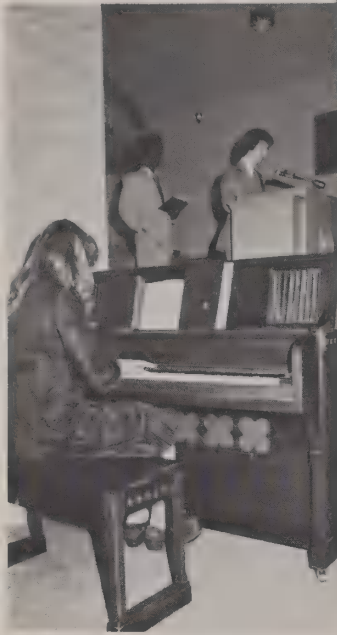

Towers Of Strength

If we would be strong towers, we must build on a good foundation. The untried week that lies ahead of us holds difficulties we dare not face alone. What more appropriate act could we perform than to meet with God as we bid the Sabbath farewell and lean upon His care and keeping as we step upon the threshold of another week?

Asking Believing Claiming

The week of spiritual emphasis sponsored by the Student Association took on a new dimension this year, with video-tape presentations by Steve Marshall. The lesson of grasping God's promises by faith became so vivid. How can we be so faithless when we know our God will fulfill our every need?

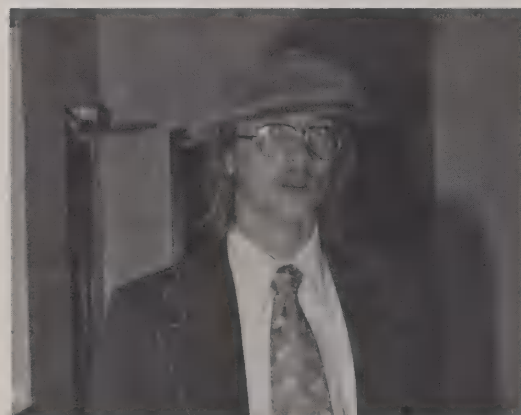

Reaching Out

Under the sponsorship of the Bible Department, some students prepare sermonettes for presentation in churches throughout the conference. On Sabbaths various groups visit congregations in the state and share their faith through sermon and song. This also is a great method of promoting good public relations between the school and its constituency.

Farrell's Moved To I.A.

There was a constant hum of activity in the girls' residence as they made every effort to prepare their domain for the annual open house. When every item was cared for, the young men arrived with their tour guides and dates.

The girls of Holly Hall provided entertainment for the fellows in a setting very popular among the student body. The scene in the cafeteria was converted into a Farrell's ice cream parlour and the menu of sundaes and lemonade was served by waitresses garbed in red and white outfits with hats to match. To make the event more real, a few birthdays were celebrated and at the signal of the drum everyone sang birthday greetings. A film was shown depicting the life of a big long horn which became a family pet.

Memories They Leave Behind

For many seniors it's been four years of learning mixed with laughter and friends. Now as each goes his separate way, the future beckons him with wide open arms to a world of opportunity. May each one find his place in life and fill it with dignity.

Peace Goodwill....

The Choralanas and the Keynotes proclaimed peace and goodwill to all on the afternoon of December 11 as they presented their annual Christmas program under the direction of Mr. Larry Otto and Miss Vinnie Alsaybar. There is no doubt that the Christmas spirit filled every heart for they sang as if the angelic choir was participating. The audience was composed of many parents who traveled from afar, an indication that the choir performance is so much appreciated.

Odds And Ends

Confusion? Maybe it was to the spectator, but for the students of I.A this event continues to be high on the list of enjoyable Saturday nights. Everyone--even if he is new-comes to the gymnasium bearing armloads of various objects, prepared to win the most points for his class. This year the seniors emerged the victors and the entire class was awarded a free treat at the South Pole in Tipton.

Don't look I'm rich! It's the latest style. Now you want one too don't ya?

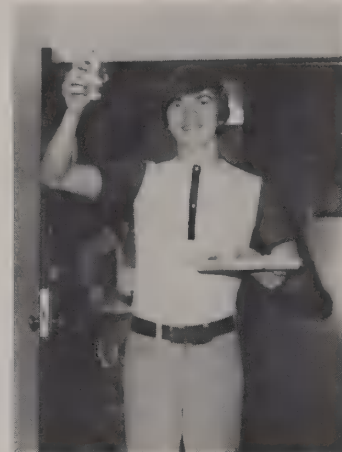

Games And Laughs

At a homestead party, everyone on campus is prone to "let down his hair." School clothes are exchanged for some old farm clothes. The gym is converted into anything but a learning or cultural center, a cider mill grinds away, popcorn is being produced as quickly as it is eaten, and in general everyone is doing what he enjoys most. The planned events included a log-sawing competition, a bonnet making contest, and a relay race.

Campus Development

The student body was privileged to move into a brand new cafeteria which was completed only a short time prior to the commencement of the 76/77 school year. As a result of the new facility our campus took on an entirely new appearance with black topped parking lots, new sidewalks and drive-ways, and a different look to the landscape. The cafeteria, built to seat 250, has added something to the spirits of our campus life. As one enters the building, the interior decor is quite a contrast to our old dining room and is pleasing to the eye. The equipment is new and the facility comes with a bakery, walk in freezers and coolers and adequate storage. To our administration, we can only offer you our thanks and appreciation for this lovely addition to our campus.

They Work For Our School

Can you imagine a school without an active Student Association? With pride and a sense of gratitude, our school family recognizes the sponsors and officers of an organization that have labored not only to provide fun and entertainment but have made us aware of the need for cultural habits as well.

Guests For An Evening

The annual party sponsored by the faculty on behalf of the seniors was an evening of fun, games, and laughter. Each senior's name was hidden among the posters on the walls, and Mr. Grosboll's comments invited peals of laughter from his audience. Elder Innis' portrayal in essay and Mr. Anderson's song mentioned the seniors as they appeared to the faculty and their peers. Mr. and Mrs. Trubey have become celebrities who each year predict the future of the graduating class.

Echoes To Read

When you want current information or news of the latest happening you choose to read our campus publication known as the ECHO. Mrs. Nash, the sponsor, and editor Tina Edwards are always on the alert to pick up any news flashes or select news-worthy items from assignments in the English classes. In fact the periods between each publication are indeed a busy time for everyone who gets involved with the ECHO. Students begin thinking of how best to put their thoughts on paper. Editing is done, the final drafts are made and the lay-out is taken to the press where it is finally proofread and printed. After it is received from the press, it is addressed sorted by zip codes and put in the mail.

Thank you, ECHO staff, for putting out a school paper that we can be proud of.

Towers Beckon

If the sight of a tower can inspire us to make our lives a fortress of strength, then a look at the Eiffel Tower at King's Island, near Cincinnati, will help us aspire towards the lofty and the noble. For the past several years, this experience has been the reward of obtaining at least 20 subscriptions towards the school publications. Somehow, the place never loses its excitement for the students of I. A. and this year 61 students qualified to participate in the trip.

Attractions of all kinds on the beautiful grounds will cause anyone to forget his usually tight schedule and enjoy a day of fun. Even if you grow deadly ill on the roller coaster, you can still consider it a worthwhile trip. A stop for pizza on the way home concludes the day's activities.

Memories To Last Forever

May the memories tucked away in the pages of this annual be a source of strength and personal satisfaction to each of you. God help that as our towers grow higher and higher we may reflect the true spirit and purpose of the lessons we have learned.

Everything But The Slopes . . .

Everything happened to be in the proper perspective-the weather outside was ideal and the setting in the cafeteria portrayed a scene surrounding a ski lodge. For those who had never visited such a resort at Christmas time, the fellows of Spartan Club combined their efforts into providing for the young ladies a cozy atmosphere within the converted lodge. Master of Ceremonies, Don Evans, combined his humor with the evening's entertainment to perfect this social event. A film brought the program to a delightful ending.

Balls And Cheers

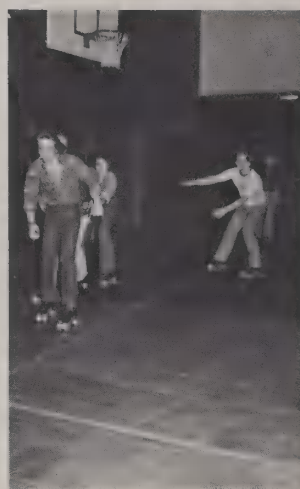

Two of the favorite pastimes of the sports-minded people at I. A. are volleyball and football. During the football season the fellows enjoy the support the girls give by their presence at the games. When that season subsides then the girls enjoy getting into the action with the fellows on the volleyball scene. The tournament is played with an abundance of energy and good sportsmanship, and a sense of togetherness makes everyone feel that a good school spirit is being promoted.

People On Wheels

As a final adieu to our weekend fun, the gymnasium is transformed into an exciting rink on Sunday evenings. Here the students have an opportunity to inculcate fun into building their physical tower. Occassionally someone's wheels go into the wrong direction and a fall becomes inevitable, but the whole idea is to have a good time together. So arm-in-arm they go again.

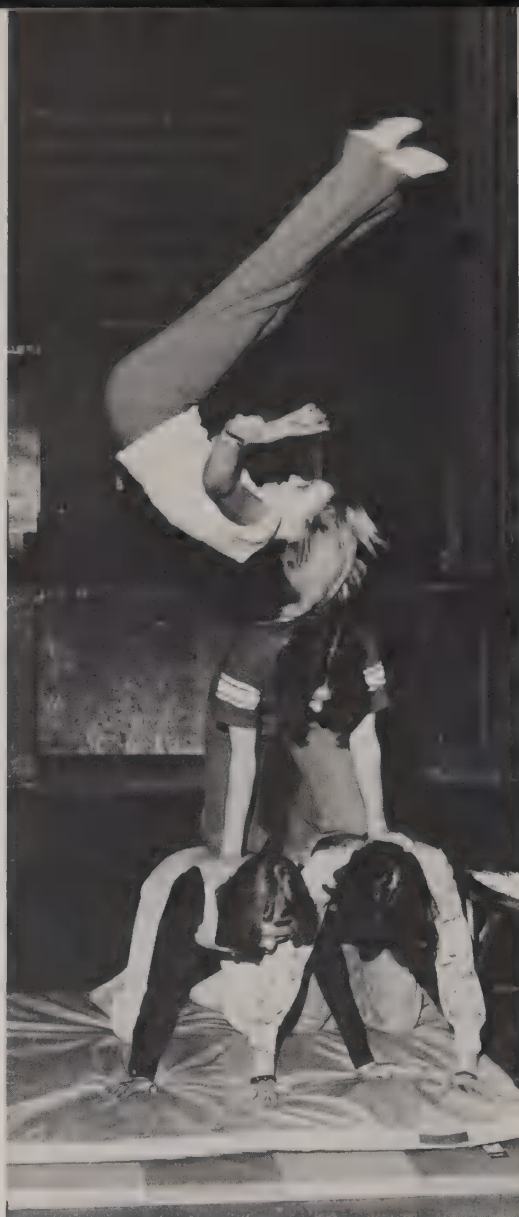

Reaching For The Goal

What is IA's most popular sport? If anyone wonders about this, stop in for recreation some evening. There is almost always a good game of basketball in session. If one is lucky he may find Marlen Smith doing one of his sensational stunts. What more can be said? It is invigorating fun, it is number one, and undoubtedly it is here to stay.

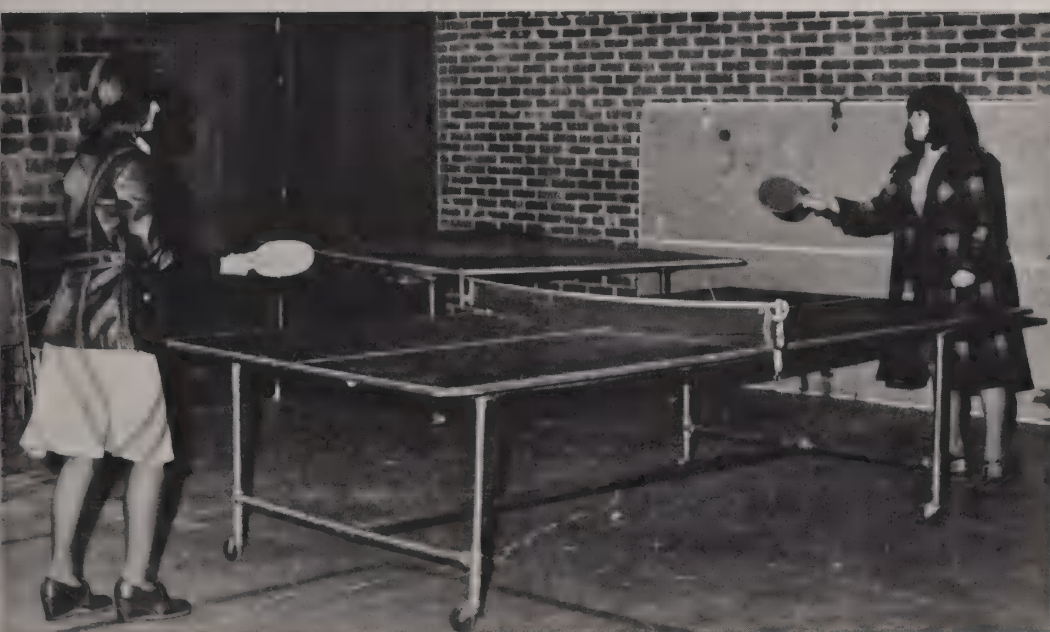

Fitness For Christ

Recreation in a Christ-centered atmosphere is the principle of IA's tumbling team. Tutored by Mr. Stanley Rouse, the team's dozen members, made their appearance at several Indiana churches this past year. Perseverance, concentration and keen sportsmanship are some of the hallmarks of achievement in this endeavor.

Activities That Rejuvenate

It's time to unwind after a day of rushing from work to the classroom, or vice versa, and all who can afford to take time for some relaxation find refuge in the gymnasium. Table-tennis, basketball, trying to keep pace with the rope as it turns, or even building strong muscles - there just might be several activities being pursued at the same time.

A Time For Friendship

A trip into fantasyland on February 13 was one of the highlights of the year. The Student Association officers and sponsors put every energy into arranging such an atmosphere that cupid's efforts to entwine hearts was made rather easy in a setting so appropriate to the occasion; heartshaped decorations hung from the ceiling and the walls and the air just seemed romantic. Our special guests were members of the IA Board.

A delicious meal helped put everyone at ease and in a perfect mood for the evening's entertainment. Mr. & Mrs. Lester Trubey reminisced about their 44 years together while some of the faculty and students portrayed similar events.

When the evening ended, many people were trying to sober up after the sidesplitting film.

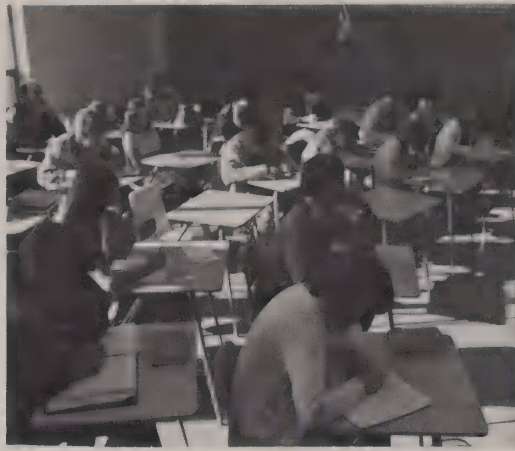

Guests On Our Campus

Among the elements that provide excellent growth in building our towers is the union of the influence of our parents and our teachers. Once a year I. A. provides the opportunity for these two forces to combine their efforts into one channel. On November 7, our parents were guests on our campus. First they registered and visited classes with us. In some of these sessions, they were invited to participate in the discussion or the assignments.

Lunch in the new cafeteria was a thrilling experience for most folk. Here was tangible evidence of an answer to prayers and their giving.

The afternoon was a time to get acquainted. The teachers were available for conference with the students and their parents. Time was allotted for an open question and answer period and a profitable day closed with refreshments served in the library.

Living Towers

Under the direction of Elder Duane Ferguson and Elder James Innis the students consider relevant issues of our age. The freshmen study about God, the Sophomores learn about God's Church, the Juniors pursue the doctrines of God's Word, and the Seniors prepare to breakthrough into God's World, applying the things they have learned to everyday life. The Bible provides the blueprint for every tower man desires to erect, and therefore is the most important subject studied.

No matter how humble his path may be, everyone is capable of appreciating the finer things of life to some degree. Mr. Larry Otto, Miss Vinnie Alsaybar and Mrs. Margaret Anderson have spent much time training students to adopt and appreciate some of the arts of music and craft into their experiences.

In Quest Of Perfection

Numerical Challenges

Challenging, and sometimes exciting, could describe the study of mathematics as it relates to the pupils, but for the teachers, Mr. Don Evans and Mr. Fred Anderson, it has not always been a bed of roses. They provide students with a valuable foundation for future study and perhaps a life work.

Frogs, worms, electrons, the periodic table . . . these are only a few of the things studied under Mr. Fred Anderson, teacher of biology and chemistry. For those who are deeply interested in the wonders of science there is yet another field of study. Directed by Mr. Don Evans the physics students learn about things such as Newton's laws of universal gravitation, torque, and moment of inertia. With such excellent teachers the field of science is a thrilling venture.

Ions, Inertia, Ingestion

*Thank you for finally making it to the year. It was a nice year. I hope you have the stay of trouble!!
 P.S. I'll remember you working here this summer while I'm at Andrews studying away.*

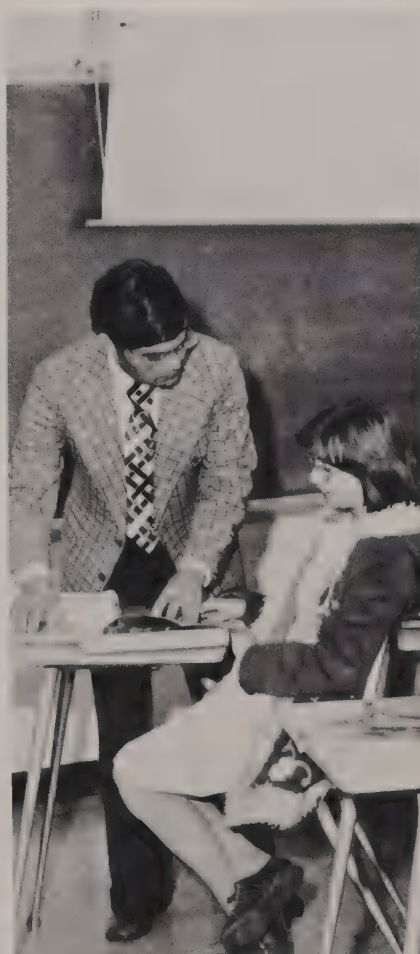

Accuracy Counts

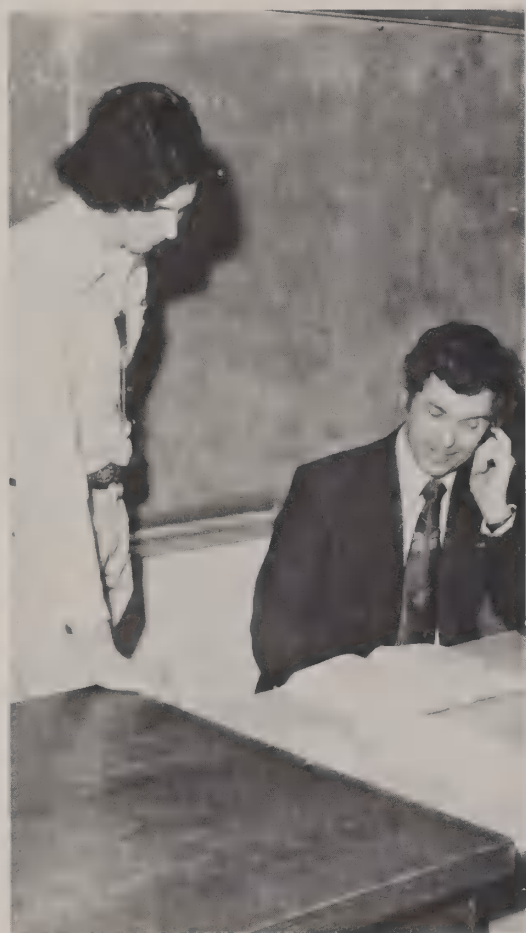

No matter what future course an individual may pursue, it is always wise to have a knowledge of the business world. To help students prepare for facing tomorrow, a number of subjects are offered in the field of business education. Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping and General Business are offered.

In order for mankind to communicate his thoughts, he must utilize some language skills. The development of our own language and the pursuit of a new and challenging tongue to many are directed by Elder James Innis, Mr. Max Bodtker and Mr. Roger Chapman.

Words, Words, Words . . .

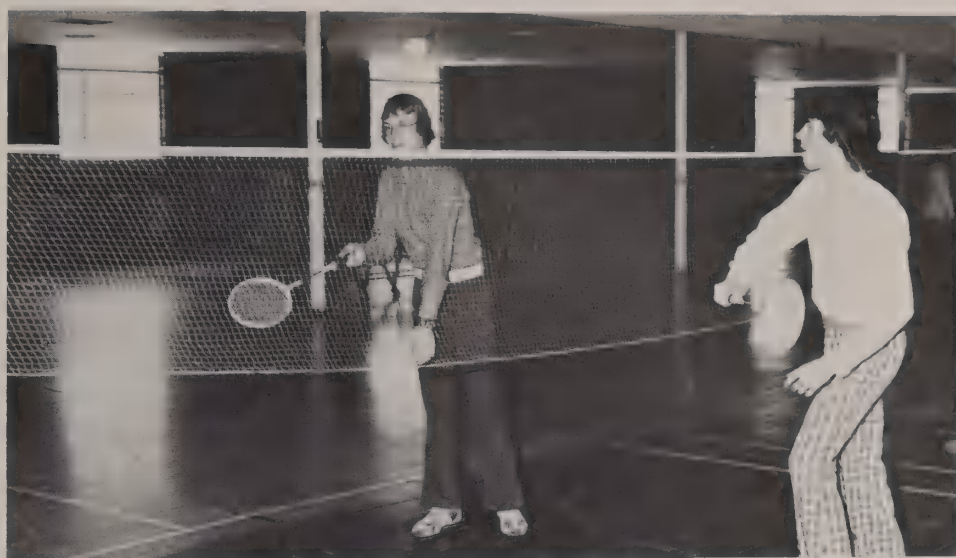

Lessons From Yesteryear

Focusing upon the events of the past, Mr. Harold Grosboll and Mr. Max Bodtke endeavor to blend the yesteryears with the present to illustrate how far we have come. In a Christian school, it is a grand opportunity to follow the leading of the Almighty through times of war and hardship mixed with achievement and gain to our present state of comparative ease.

What better diversion from a hectic schedule could there be besides exercise? In considering the harmony of mental with physical exercise, one realizes the need for a balanced program. Mr. Stanley Rouse and Mrs. Paula Chapman endeavor to stress the importance of good sportsmanship, also.

Whether a person plans for a future profession or a vocation that does not require much formal education, after he leaves the portals of our school he will be able to fill a place in life. Mrs. Margaret Anderson and Mr. James Mitchell have provided instruction in skills that will assist the young man or woman to become a valuable citizen.

Towers Of Knowledge

To be a member of the Honor Society a student must prove his academic ability by attaining a GPA of at least 3.25.

Accelerated college courses and benefits from scholarships are some of the rewards for being diligent and striving for academic excellence.

Administering . . .

God is the Master Architect of the structures we hope to perfect eventually, but He has placed us in a situation where we are blessed with the guidance of a good administration. These leaders, though sometimes exhausted by our seeming lack, have put forth a great deal of effort into providing an atmosphere of security and promoting the importance of the Christian life. May your days and weeks of careful guidance and Christian leadership produce in us the desire to always live for the right and become citizens fit for life everlasting.

Too many, in planning for a brilliant future, make an utter failure. Let God plan for you. As a little child, trust to the guidance of Him who will "keep the feet of His saints." I Samuel 2:9. God never leads His children otherwise than they would choose to be led, if they could see the end from the beginning and discern the glory of the purpose which they are fulfilling as co-workers with Him.

INDIANA CONFERENCE

The Indiana Conference is honored to serve the youth of Indiana through the Christian schools which it fosters. We rejoice over our privilege of encouraging Seventh-day Adventist young people to accept the challenge of service to God and humanity. To the seniors of 1977 at Indiana Academy, we extend heartfelt congratulations and sincere wishes for God's blessings in future pathways of their lives.

Dear Sharon,

Well what can I say? We have been through alot. I think I have almost forgiven you for what you did. I am trying anyway. Remember all the fun things we have done.

Remember when I use to "love" your cousin.

Thanks for telling me what he said about me. I have forgiven him too though. He is a sweet guy. I will always remember you as the one with the fox, fox, fox! uncle. Remember, my secret ambition?

I think I will see you at camp meeting if you are here and I am not too busy. You ought

As when we went to the tressle or when we went to Castleton & saw all those fox dudes. Man what I could do to please them. Be sure not to party too much.

I would hate to see you flying. You might look kind

Where to now?

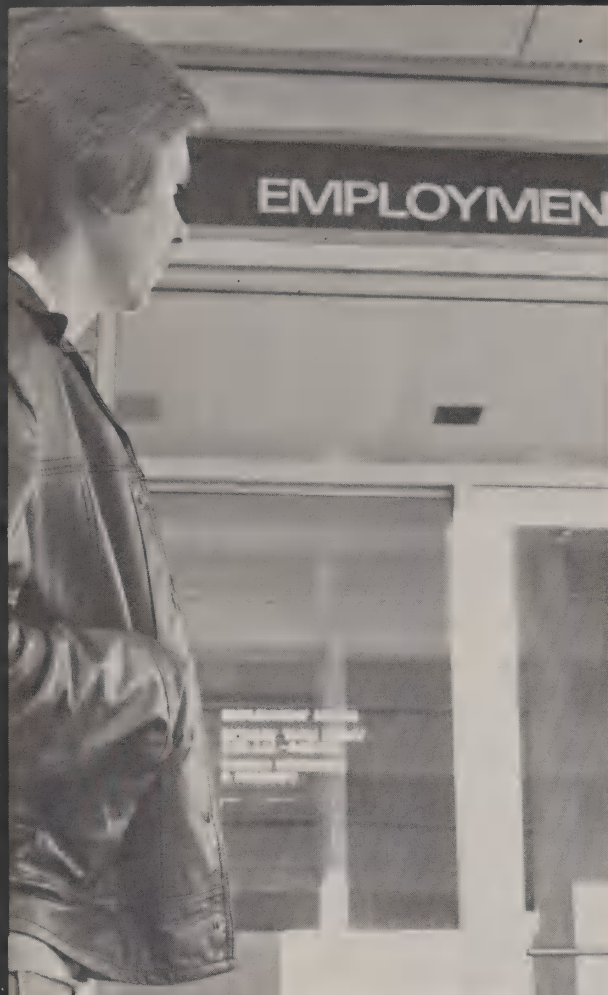

Andrews University provides professional offer over 155 programs of study.

Let Andrews help you answer the question, Where to now?

Write the Director of Admissions, Andrews University,

Pity the person with no marketable skills

Even a college degree is small comfort for the graduate with no hands-on education. Pity the graduate who must muddle along on the job for years, getting the experience that should have been part of a resume at commencement time!

Worse, pity the person who never goes to college!

Both will advance more slowly in their work than graduates with practical education.

No need to pity students at Kettering College of Medical Arts; they get extensive experience along with book learning. For example, second-year respiratory therapy students spend 50 percent of their schooling time working in hospital units, and nearly every other curriculum calls for a final semester of hands-on learning before graduation.

Offering eight health-related associate degree programs, and a general education degree, Kettering College is part of a true medical center, dedicated to the advancement of health care.

CONCLUSION

Farewell. Another year has slipped behind the curtain of their lives and the seniors of '77 are about to embark upon the big, wide world. How well they encounter the beyond will determine the structure of the towers they built. May the paths they pursue be filled with success and fulfillment.

we had in Biology. Steve

Dear Shell,

I think we can both agree that this year will never, never be forgotten - the year as our friendship goes. There had some rough times, and more good ones. I remember that time you got so mad at me, you slammed my door and I was afraid it would fall off the hinges! My pilot impulses, after starting to catch the door, was to laugh. I was so funny - always could make me smile. I remember you feeling low - I left my spirit so many times. I remember all those long talks the had? You're a sweet kid - old who really did alot. For me so many times. Thank you for being my friend, for understanding my needs and disagreements. I've at days I have many of I don't come back next year - writing me. I really would like to hear from you. I'll never forget our friendship. I know, they had to keep shed in your life - No you're best friend and their never let you down. Remember I love you - see you in heaven.
